

Qualified Patent Attorney, York

£65-£70,000

It's easy to forget what being a Patent Attorney can be about – being close to inventors; advising business on intellectual property strategies that will define their operations for years to come; developing new ideas; meeting interesting people and working with cutting edge technology across a variety of sectors and industries.

Secerna will help you remember why you became a Patent Attorney in the first place, whilst encouraging you to be an integral part of an exciting, growing entrepreneurial business, with genuine career opportunities.

Ideal candidates will be European and UK qualified (although one of the two will be sufficient). You will have the desire to be the best and will have a technical background in physics, electronics or mechanical engineering.

Led by Jason Boakes and Charlotte Watkins, Secerna is a new firm with a real sense of style – they have enjoyed a very successful start and therefore want to grow their business with a team that can support their clients and their commercial objectives.
